INTRODUCTION

The first international conference on chemically-activated materials (CAM'2010) was successfully held in Jinan, China in 2010. The second international conference on advances in chemically-activated materials (CAM'2014-China) will be held in Changsha in 2014, China. Many world-leading experts in this area will be invited to give speeches at the conference. The objectives of this conference are to exchange information and to promote the research, development and use of CAM.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Papers on all aspects of CAM will be considered. Conference program topics include but not limited to:

- Selection and characteristics of raw materials
- Formulation design and testing
- Hydration and microstructure
- Use of chemical and mineral admixtures
- Concrete mix design and production
- Mechanical properties and performance corrosion resistance and durability
- Fire resistance
- Testing methods
- Structural design and testing
- Standards/specifications
- New applications and case studies/field experiences

IMPORTANT DATES

Sept 30, 2013	Submission of about 300-words abstracts
Oct 31, 2013	Acceptance notification to authors
Jan 10, 2014	Submission of draft paper
Mar 30, 2014	Submission of final camera-ready Manuscripts
Mar 01, 2014	Early registration

ABSTRACT AND PAPER SUBMISSION

You can submit your abstract(s) and paper(s) online at <http://cam2014.hnu.edu.cn>. The guidelines for manuscript preparation will be sent out later.

CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS

The keynote speech and quality papers will be published in the Journal of Sustainable Cement-based Materials by Taylor & Francis. Other papers will be included in the conference proceedings republished by RILEM and submitted to ISTP database for indexing.

CONFERENCE LANGUAGE

The official language of the conference will be English.

VENUE

The symposium will be held in Changsha City, China, which is the capital city of Hunan Province. It is the political, economic, scientific, educational, cultural and business center of the province. It is located in the downstream of the Xiangjiang River. With a long history stretching back more than 3,000 years, Changsha has a reputation as "Home of Qu Yuan and Jiayi" and "City of Chu-Han." It is one of the "Famous Cities of History and Culture" evaluated by the State Council and one of the first tourist cities in China open to the outside world.

CONFERENCE LANGUAGE

The official language of the conference will be English.
